DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

The terminal disclaimer has been received and approved.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wong et al. '357 in view of Wong et al. '027, Wong et al. 645, Fix et al. '193 and Mead '737.

The claims are rejected for the reasons of record cited in the last office action and for these further reasons. Wong '357 discloses that 50% of the particles are smaller than about 10 microns (abstract and col. 20, lines 18-25) as in claim 1. Therefore, it would have been obvious to make a composition as claimed using the claimed particle sizes.

ARGUMENTS

Applicant's arguments filed 4-9-04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicants argue that the '357 reference does not teach limitations of claims 1 and 7, in particular, the particle sizes. However, as amended the references do teach the particle sizes as above.

Art Unit: 1761

Applicants argue that there is no teaching as to spreadability in the references. However, the limitation as to spreadability is seen as a process limitation in a composition claim. The composition has been shown. Applicants' specification discloses on page 14, that the spreadability values are for a gap mill method (para. 0051). The references do not use a gap mill, but homogenizers and other apparatus that process the nuts. Therefore, it is seen that the limitation as to the spreadability is a process limitation in a composition claim, which is not given weight.

It is not seen how applicants can say that the references especially Wong '357 does not show the composition. Wong '357 discloses a nut ingredient, stabilizers, emulsifiers and bulking agents (col. 20, lines 18-25). The only things that Wong et al. do not disclose are 1.4% of the particles, which are larger than 58.7 microns and the spreadability limitation. Certainly, this large size particle size is known as in any crunchy peanut butter, and as above, a process limitation as to spreadability is not given weight in a composition claim.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
